INITIAL MEETING OF GIRLS' CLUB

A GREAT SUCCESS

YOUNG LADIES ENJOY LUNCHEON ON CAMPUS

Saturday afternoon the Girls' Club, which is composed of the young ladies of the University, gave a spread on the campus near the Chancellor's residence.

The Girls' Club was organized only a few weeks ago and this was the first social meeting. The object of this club is to bring more young ladies to Vanderbilt, and to develop greater college spirit among those already here. With no dormitory it is a hard matter to keep up strong college spirit among the young ladies.

After delightful refreshments had been served the following toasts were responded to: "The Girls' Club," Miss Florence Teague; "The Co-eds at Vanderbilt," Miss Utopia Rothrock; "Opening Vistas of College Life," Miss Eleanor Richardson; "Ex-Officio Advisors," Miss Elizabeth McElweath; "The Co-ed Guardian," Miss Virginia Black; "The Social Committee," Miss Eunice Ware; "Co-eds," a song, Miss Nanita McDonnell.

After the spread the young ladies gave the first of a series of plays to be given from time to time at the University. Saturday's play was "Castle Muff," a melodrama, the scene of which is laid in the black forests of Germany during the fifteenth century. Misses Lena Godby and Ninita McDonnell were the authoresses. The leading parts were presented by Misses Lena Godby, Lila Bartlett, Nanita McDonnell and Juliet Hartman. The minor parts were presented by Misses Lamar Ryals, Utopia Rothrock, Louise Young, VirginiaRandall and Sarah Winton.

The play was enthusiastically received and the audience hopes to hear another in the near future.
